ABOUT ISFP

Organization overview

Since its inception in 1988, the International Society for Fall Protection (ISFP), a 501 (c) (3) not-for-profit organization, has been dedicated to reducing fall-related injuries and fatalities by promoting research and facilitating communication among industry professionals.

Its mission: to be the international voice and forum for fall protection information exchange. For more information about the ISFP, visit www.isfp.org.

ISFP symposia

Every two years, ISFP brings together safety professionals to disseminate information about the latest advances in the field of fall protection, and to provide guidance for safe work at height.

Attracting world-renowned experts in the field of fall protection, ISFP Symposia continue to be a dominant platform through which the society facilitates idea exchange.
